SCS Interactive Creates the Central Attraction for the Yucatan Country Club

Denver, Colo. (April 9, 2009). SCS Interactive collaborated with Yucatan Country Club located in the Yucatan Village & Resort at Mérida, Yucatán, México, to create an iconic waterplay structure for the resort's golf club. This element of waterplay fun will be a great enticement for families who are looking for a more child-friendly club. The Yucatan Country Club is happy to be able to open this attraction in late April.

"Having this opportunity to work with the Yucatan Country Club allowed SCS a chance to further broaden its international scope and to show the world its capability for creating world class waterplay structures. Our structure in the country club will not only deliver unforgettable thrills, but it will offer club members hours of matchless entertainment while keeping them cool during the sizzling summers," stated Steve Wagner, vice president of sales and marketing for SCS Interactive.

The SCS structure that will be installed is a Classic SCS Model 245. It is crowned with a large tipping bucket and offers five climbable decks along with nearly 30 different interactives such as hydro blasters and jets. All elements of this attraction offer a memorable experience of soaking wet fun, interaction and adventure for the whole family.

"We are all very excited about our SCS waterplay feature and the excitement it will offer to the children at the Yucatan Country Club. It has been a great selling point for families with children and we know this attraction will be enjoyed for years to come," stated Juan Carlos Martinez the director general for the Yucatan Country Club.
